Medical Record Regulations

To assist the University in safeguarding a student's health, it is the responsibility of the student and his/her parents to make known any abnormality or significant medical condition and to obtain an appropriate description of the condition from a physician.

Louisiana Law requires that students be immunized against preventable and communicable disease, including but not limited to measles, mumps, rubella, tetanus-diphtheria, and meningitis. New students born in 1957 and afterward must provide proof of immunization on the designated form. To assist the University, the student must make known any significant medical condition and obtain an appropriate description of the condition from a physician.
