New Faculty Orientation

New Faculty Orientation is one of the ways UL Lafayette invests in the success of its faculty at all stages of their careers. The two-day orientation will introduce faculty and staff to information, resources and support available on campus. In addition to this program, there will be opportunities throughout the year to ask questions, meet colleagues, and gain additional information that is important to your success here.

The orientation is also an opportunity to meet key senior leaders of the University and to hear about their vision for the University. Orientation takes place annually in August, prior to the start of the academic semester.

New full-time faculty members attend both of the following orientation sessions:

August 1, 2018 New Employee Orientation Schedule (includes new full-time faculty)
