Expectations for Graduate Admission

To be clear, your undergraduate academic performance and test scores are an important part of your graduate school application because they help predict how successful you'll be in grad school. But they're not everything!

Graduate admission decisions at the University of Louisiana at Lafayette are based on your entire application. We use a portfolio approach that allows stronger aspects of your application—for example, strong letters of reference or professional experience—to compensate for weaker parts, such as lower test scores.

When you submit your application, you are responsible for ensuring that you meet the admissions requirements. You are officially admitted only when you receive written notice from the Dean of the Graduate School. Correspondence from a department or faculty member does not guarantee your admission to UL Lafayette. The University is in compliance with all federal laws pertaining to discrimination.

Below are the preferred expectations for GPA and GRE/GMAT (required by some programs) as well as the minimum TOEFL/IELTS scores to qualify an applicant for unconditional graduate admission.

Doctoral (PhD, EdD, DNP) Degree Programs:

- GPA – a 3.0 cumulative GPA (4.0 scale) on undergraduate work and/or 3.3 cumulative GPA (4.0 scale) on graduate work already completed
- GRE – not required for all graduate programs / preferred expectations are set by individual graduate programs / contact the graduate coordinator for more information

Master's Degree Programs

- GPA – a 2.75 cumulative undergraduate GPA or, for those with US degrees, a 3.0 GPA (4.0 scale) in the last 60 hours of undergraduate study
- GRE – not required for all graduate programs / preferred expectations are set by individual graduate programs / contact the graduate coordinator for more information
- GMAT (Accounting MS and MBA only) – a total score of 450
