Internships & Assistantships

Internships and graduate assistantships are great ways to enhance your professional experience. Graduate assistantships also allow you to receive funding and waive your tuition and most of your fees.

Internships can be an integral part of the college learning experience, and all of our programs offer internship opportunities. Some majors require an internship and match each student with the best position to develop their skills and interests. Others will accommodate student requests for internship experiences for credit toward the degree.

For more information about specific internships and how it works in your major, ask your faculty advisor or the head of your department.

You can also find information about opportunities for each department using the links below.
