

Dean Jordan Kellman, College of Liberal Arts, was appointed Dean in 2012. He previously served as professor, Director of Academic Planning and Faculty Development (2010-2012), and Associate Dean of Liberal Arts (2009-2010), having joined the University in 2002. Dean Kellman, a historian, holds a B.A. in history and philosophy of science from the University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign (1989), an M.A. in history from the University of California, Berkeley (1992), and an M.A. in history from Princeton University (1998). His research focus is on Francophone ethnography and colonial history.